PROFESSIONAL POSITIONS

Arizona State University
Fall 2005 – Present

Associate Professor of Psychology
Southwest Borderlines Scholar
Barrett Honors College Faculty
Prevention Research Center

EDUCATION

- 2005      Ph.D. in Psychology
            Florida International University, Miami's Public University
            Advisors: Drs. Wendy K. Silverman and William M. Kurtines
            Research Emphasis: Child Developmental Psychopathology
- 2001      M.S. in Applied Developmental Science and Mental Health
            Florida International University, Miami's Public University
            Advisor: Dr. Wendy K. Silverman

PRIMARY INTERESTS

The primary focus of my research is the study of intra-individual level risk factors in the development of internalizing problems in youths and the evaluation of psychosocial interventions for use with this population. My work integrates cultural and child-adolescent anxiety research and is aimed at developing culturally informed assessment and intervention services. A focus on my work is on the study of risk and resilience among ethnic minority population in the United States as well as translational research. Congruent with my research, my teaching is informed by developmental science and clinical perspectives with the main theme being "emotional learning and its reversal."
